TWO DISCOVERIES.

Blanche found something in the pear tree, but it was a sweet.

"Oh, grandma!" exclaimed Blanche breathlessly, "guess what I discovered in the big pear tree this morning!"

Grandma pried up her spectacles and tried to look very wise. "Is it something to eat?" she asked.

"Yes," answered Blanche quickly, "part of it is."

"And is it sweet?" continued grandma.

"Just as sweet as sugar," declared Blanche.

"Then I guess it's a big bonanza," said grandma, smiling.

But Blanche shook her head. "You haven't guessed it right at all," she said.

"Dear, dear, no!" exclaimed grandma thoughtfully, "whatever can it be? I think you will have to tell me, Blanche."

"I'm not going to just yet," said Blanche, "because maybe I tell you a few more things you can guess it. Part of it is a house, and something lives in it, and they can fly."

"Perhaps it's a bird," suggested Aunt Nan.

Blanche laughed and laughed. "Why, it's most as good as a puzzle," she said. "Do you ever eat birds, Aunt Nan?"

"Sakes alive, no!" exclaimed Aunt Nan decidedly.

"Supposing we go out and take a look at your puzzle," said grandma, as she folded up her paper.

So they all went quickly down the narrow garden walk and stopped beside the tall green pear tree. "Don't you see it?" asked Blanche excitedly. "That great gray bee's nest away up near the top? And don't you see the yellow-buzzing and humming around every branch? Don't you see them, grandma?"

"No," said grandma slowly, "I don't. There isn't a bee's nest anywhere around here that I can see, even with my glasses on, and I can't discover one single bee either."

"Why—ee!" exclaimed Blanche wonderingly, "I can see them as plain as anything, grandma, quite remarkably!"

Grandma looked amused. "What bright, bright eyes you must have," he said, smiling.

"And can't you really see any thing?" asked grandma, and pears!" asked Blanche in surprise.

"Oh, yes, indeed," answered grandma, with a twinkle in his eye. "I've discovered something quite remarkable. Blanche, I've discovered that every one of your yellow bees are nothing more or less than hornets!"

"Why—ee!" exclaimed Blanche in astonishment. And then how everybody laughed—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

The Stolen Lunch.

Poor little Peter! Do you see him at the schoolhouse door? Oh, how he cries and howls!

Yesterday a little girl named Mary Owens came to the schoolhouse and said: "Oh, Miss Ward, what shall I do? This is the third day that some one has eaten up all my lunch. I have been watching and trying to find out who can be the thief. But it is of no use."

(The poor child cried because she was so troubled at the loss of her dinner.)

"Never mind, little Mary," said the teacher. "Do as I tell you, and we will catch the naughty child very soon."

So they said not a word more before the other scholars and quietly laid their plan. Next morning the teacher brought a tempting doughnut and placed it in Mary's lunch basket.

Just before the bell rang to dismiss the school at noon the scholars heard a noise and soon saw Peter standing by the well and working the pump handle in a lively fashion.

The doughnut had been filled with red pepper, and when poor Peter tasted it he knew he was found out. Oh, how it did burn! It seemed as if he could never get to the water. And, worst of all, the boys and girls now came running to him, shouting and laughing at him with all their might.

No doubt this was the last time little Mary will lose her lunch—BOSTON WOMAN'S JOURNAL.

A Three-year-old Bicyclist.

Would you like an introduction to the youngest bicycle rider in Chicago, if not in the world? This is his picture. The young man is just 8 years old, and he lives at 2780 Commercial street, Ravenswood. His name is Allison Friedberg. He rides an odd little baby bicycle, the wheels of which are only 18 inches in diameter and the seat 23 inches from the ground. Not long ago he rode from Ravenswood to Lincoln park and back a distance of ten miles, in less than half a day. He learned to ride very easily and is not at all afraid—CHICAGO RECORD.

Black, the left-handed pitcher, is in Philadelphia. He has learned the electrician's trade since he quit baseball and is working at it.

Good nature is the very air of a good animal, the sign of a large and generous soul and the peculiar soil in which virtue grows.—GOODMAN.
